

	Brown sign with white arrow indicates a designated trail. The trail is a legitimate trail, however it may be restricted to certain forms of transportation.
	Most trails have carsonite posts marking the trail head. The symbols on the post indicate what type of use is permitted on the trail, what types of vehicles are prohibited, and the difficulty rating of the trail. The trail number is also indicated.
	Carsonite post indicating no motor vehicles permitted beyond this point. Often used to designate areas which are closed for rehabilitation. Please stay out of the area beyond the signs to avoid resource damage or to allow a rehabilitation area to occur.
	Some trails are marked with wooden entry signs.
	Trail is open to ATV's less than 50" in width.
	Trail is open to two-wheeled motorcycles, aka "dirt bikes".
	Trail is open to 4WD (full size) vehicles.
	Trail is open to hiking.
	Trail is open to bicycles.
	Trail is open to equestrian traffic.
	Trail is open to snowmobile traffic.
	Closed to vehicles over 50" in width.
	No camping.
	No fires.
	Designates a parking area.
	Trail is rated as easiest difficulty. Suitable for riders with less experience.
	Trail is rated as a medium difficulty. Suitable for riders with more experience that are comfortable with most types of trail obstacles.
	Trail is rated as most difficult. Recommended for experienced, expert riders only. May contain difficult to negotiate trail obstacles.